Profile

A recent graduate of the University of Toronto. I opted to make a career change into full stack development. I have many years in both the finance industry and the veterinary world. Some would say it may be a little strange for someone to change mid stream career for a third time. I look at it as a positive. I have a large skill set I bring with my from my finance and management experience and an ever broader one I bring with me from working in a high paced emergency vet clinic.

Skills

Front — End
HTML5 — Well versed in HTML including experience with BootStrap and Drupal.

CSS3 — Design is something I take seriously and CSS3 is an excellent tool for this. I have honed my skills with it over time and produce more and more polished results. I am slowing working towards animation. Please check out my portfolio.

JavaScript — Pure JavaScript is my favourite of the technologies so far. I have done a lot of work in it with libraries such as moment.js and am comfortable with using them.

jQuery — JavaScripts most common library. I have quite a bit of experience with it including using AJAX calls.
